Extract of a letter dated Lisbon, Oct. 20, 1821.

'I send you a description of the Inquisition at this place, which I have been to visit. At the sitting of the Cortes on the 10th instant, Senhor Figueras presented a letter from the keeper of the Inquisition, stating, that on the building being opened for public inspection, the people had behaved in a very disorderly manner, breaking open chests and carrying away papers, &c.; and that several persons had actually cried out that the building should be burned, whilst they held lighted candles in their hands, as if about to put their threats into execution; which he stated they would have done but for the interposition of the guards. The keeper therefore prayed that measures should be taken to prevent the recurrence of such scenes. Senhor Bastos said, that if any such disorder as had been described had occurred, it was owing to the refusal of the keepers to show the instruments of torture and the lower cells of the prison to the visitants. In his opinion these gentlemen, the keepers, cherished a religious respect for the tribunal of which they spoke with apparent veneration. As it was apprehended the people might set fire to the place, it would be better to suspend lamps in various parts, and not allow the visitants to carry lights. Senhor Fernando Thomas proposed that an inscription, of which the following is a translation, should be fixed on every place occupied by the Inquisition in Portugal:

'May eternal malediction follow every Portuguese who does not hold for ever in abhorrence an invention so infernal.'

'On the 8th of October the Inquisition at Lisbon was thrown open for public inspection, and for the first four days the concourse of people of all descriptions that crowded to view it was so great that the pressure at the entrance rendered it at enterprise of some risk. The building is a large oblong, with a garden in the centre; there are three floors, with a number of vaulted passages, along the sides of which are cells of different sizes, from six by seven feet, to eight by nine feet Each cell has two doors; the inner one of iron, the outer one of oak, very strong. As there are no windows in the cells on the ground and middle floor, no light is admitted when the doors are shut. The cells on the upper floor are larger than the others, and each has an aperture like a chimney through which the sky is visible. These were appropriated to the use of those who it was supposed might be liberated. In the roof of each cell (for they are all vaulted,) is a small aperture of about an inch in diameter, and a private passage runs over each range, so that the persons employed by the Holy office could at any time observe the conduct of the prisoners unseen, and if two persons were confined in one cell, hear their conversation. There are seats in these private passages so contrived, that a person sitting can inspect two of the cells at the same time, as by a turn of the head he could fix his eye upon the hole over either cell at pleasure; or he could hear what was said in either. The person appointed to listen to the discourse of the prisoners wore cloth shoes; so that their footsteps could not be heard. Frequently a familiar of the Holy Office was put into the cells of a prisoner as a person arrested, in order to entrap the unfortunate inmate of this horrible place into admissions that might afterwards be used against him. I saw in several of the cells human skulls and bones; most of them appeared to have lain there for many years. as I broke some of them easily with my fingers; others were hard and fresh. In a number of the cells the names of the unhappy inmates were written on the walls, some had strokes apparently marking the number of days or weeks the victims of this horrid tyranny had been confined. On the wall of one cell I counted upwards of 500 of these marks. On the wall of another of these cells was written 'Francisco Joze Carvalho, entered here the last day of March, 1809, and remained here as many days as there are strokes on the wall. On the wall of another cell was written. 'John Laycock;' the name had been covered with white-wash, which had scaled off. There was a number of strokes under the name, and the figures eighteen were easily made out, the others were obliterated. Some of the cells which had not been used for several years were locked up, but the visitants soon broke them open. Human bones were found in many of these. In one was found a friar's habit, with a waist girdle of rope and some bones. The apertures like chimneys in some of the cells were closed; and I have been informed that it was a common mode of putting prisoners to death, to place them in these apertures which were then walled up, and quick lime being poured in from the top, a speedy end was put to their sufferings. The furniture is very old; the chairs in the hall are covered with leather, studded all round with very large brass nails: I send you a piece of leather with one of these nails, taken from one of the best chairs. The large tables in the halls had drawers for papers; these the visitants broke open, every one desirous of obtaining some relic of the once terrible Inquisition. In several of the cells there were mattrasses, some of them old, others nearly new; which proves that the inquisition was a Bugbear up to a very recent date. Besides the three floors which I have described, there are a number of cells under ground which have not been opened. These it is supposed contain the apparatus for inflicting the torture &c.—it is understood that these will be shortly thrown open to the public; when they are I shall not fail to visit them and shall send you a description. The spot on which the Inquisition stands was covered with houses in 1755, when the great [illegible] by which [illegible] it must have been crushed. How many years and all the victims that were immolated in it must have been sacrificed within that period.

Dress, &c.—Seventy years ago, cocked hats, wigs, and red cloaks, were the usual dress of gentlemen.—Boots were rarely seen, except among men. Shoe strings were worn only by those who could not buy any sort of Buckles. In winter, round coats were used, made stiff with buckram; they came down to the knees in front.

Before the Revolution, boys wore wigs and cocked hats—and boys of genteel families were cocked hats till within about thirty years.

Ball dress for gentlemen was silk coats and breeches of the same, and embroidered waistcoats; sometimes white satin breeches. Buckles were fashionable till within 15 or 20 years—and a man could not have remained in a ball room with shoe strings. It was usual for the bride, bridegroom, and maids and men attending, to go to church together, three successive Sundays after the wedding; with a change of dress each day. A gentleman who deceased not long since, appeared the first Sunday in white broad cloth—the second in blue and gold—the third in peach bloom and pearl buttons. It was a custom to hang the escutcheon of a deceased head of a family out of the window over the front door, from the time of his decease, until after the funeral. The last instance which is remembered of this, was in the case of Governor Hancock's uncle, 1764.– Copies of the escutcheon painted on black silk were more [illegible] distributed among the pall bearers—rings afterwards—and until within a few years, gloves. Dr. A Elliott had a mug full of rings which were presented to him at funerals. Till within about 20 years, gentlemen wore powder, and many of them sat from 30 to 40 minutes under the barber's hands to have their hair craped—suffering no inconsiderable pain most of the time from hair pulling, and sometimes from the hot curling tongs Crape cushions and hoops were indispensable in full dress, till within about 30 years Sometimes the ladies were dressed the day before the party, and slept in easy chairs to keep their hair in fit condition for the following night. Most ladies went to parties on foot if they could not get a seat in a friend's carriage or chaise Gentlemen rarely had a chance to ride.

The latest dinner was two o'clock—some officers of the colonial government dined later occasionally. In genteel families ladies went to drink tea about 4 o'clock: and rarely stayed after candlelight in summer. It was fashionable for ladies to propose to visit; not to be sent for.

At Savanna, on Friday the 28th inst. eight prisoners viz: John White, Robert Wessals, George Tucker, John Martin Manraux, Solomon Lodowick, Thomas Hall and John Loyal were called up to receive the sentence of the law, in the United States Circuit Court held at that place. A motion was made by the council for the accused in arrest of judgment, on the ground of informality in the indictment and sentence; but the argument was overruled by Judge Johnston, who then proceeded to pass the awful sentence. It is said his address to the prisoners was short and unstudied; but its impression was greatly hightened by the feeling manner in which it was uttered.—The occasion alone would render the solemn award of Justice an appeal more eloquent in substance than in language. The prisoners it is added felt it; one of them fainted away with that sickness of heart which shuts out hope; and, generally, their languor of muscle and despairing looks evinced the horror of that trying moment. One man, however, (Soloman Lodowick listened to his fate without any apparent emotion, and when the first Wednesday in April was named as the day of ignominious death, he smiled and declared he would die contented if he could only be revenged on his accusers.

Another example we trust, will now be made of the final result of guilty pursuits. Murder and Piracy are deeds which all mankind must unite to execrate and punish Wretches whose actions throw them out of the pale of civilized society, should be cast away from its protection, no false clemency, no natural throb of pity, which rises within us at the prospect of their dreadful fate, should divert the sword of justice from its exterminating sweep. The seas have been crimsoned with the blood of the honest mariner, and the wealth of the industrious merchant is scattered by the winds, or made the pander or exciter of vice and villany.—'Tis time to crush the hydra and spare mankind. —City Gaz.

SALEM, N. Y. Dec. 27.

Most Melancholy Accident—It is our painful duty to record one of the most distressing incidents which has ever occurred in this vicinity. Early on Wednesday last Mr. Harrison G. Blake, an inhabitant of this town, left home with his wife and one of his children, about 15 months old, intending to visit his father-in-law and other friends beyond the Green Mountain. They reached Arlington, Vt in safety, about eleven o'clock, and soon after noon proceeded on the road, leading over the mountain, thro' Sunderland. As they ascended they found the snow much deeper than they expected, and after two or three miles no sleigh had passed since the last snow, and no path or track was to be found. With much labor, however, they slowly pressed forward, breaking their road through snow more than two feet deep, on the side of a steep, rugged mountain, and nearly 5 miles from any human habitation. Here night overtook them. And to augment their dismay, their horse, fatigued by such protracted exertions in the snow, began to lag, and at length stopped. After some deliberation, they concluded to loose him from the sleigh, and made another vigorous effort to save themselves and their child. The following extract from a letter, dated Stratton Dec. 21, written in Mr. Blake's name, by his attending physician, to his friend here, exhibits all the additional particulars of this melancholy affair, which have come to our knowledge:

'My wife rode and carried the babe a short distance only, when she said she could ride no farther. She then alighted and told me she would walk as far as she could after me, and answer to my calls. I took her mantle and gave in return my great coat and mittens. Her responses soon became so low that I could not hear them, nor could she probably hear either my calls for help or my addresses to her. She advanced but a short distance, before she left our dear babe, wrapt in my great coat, in the snow. She did not travel more than 150 rods, when she became so chilled and frozen that she sunk never to rise again. She was found alive next day, but survived only a few moments. I was about 40 rods from her in advance, obviously in a perishing condition. But a few hours more, Dear Sir, and I too must have been beyond the reach of human assistance. I called aloud repeatedly before I became benumbed with the cold; but all to no avail. We were all providentially found yesterday afternoon, and carried to the nearest habitation in this town. Our babe was found half a mile from my deceased consort, with its face naked and in the snow: it smiled affectionately when taken up: it is not frozen except one foot, and that not badly. My feet are both frozen half way to my ancles. My hands are also much frozen, and to-day indescribably painful.'—Northern Post.

$20 REWARD.

RAN away on the 30th of last month from the subscriber, living on Bradock's field, near Pittsburgh, a negro boy, named about 19 years of age, five feet six or seven inches in height. The clothing he took with him, was a roundabout, jacket, and trowsers, of blue striped cotton, a pair of tow-linen trowsers, a white vest and two tow shirts, a wool hat somewhat less than half worn. He has a scar on the top of his head, occasioned by the fall of a brick from a scaffold when a child, which yet continues tender and causes pain when pressed, he is fond of whiskey and will get drunk, at which time he has a stupid look, he effects to be a rigid methodist, and is fond of singing hymns, which he frequently practises. I will give the above reward and all reasonable charges if brought home, or twenty dollars for securing him in any jail in the U. States, so that I can get him again. He went away in company with a yellow man named DICK, who sometimes calls himself Henry Dickson, the property of J. & H. Wallace, who will give a reasonable reward for his apprehension.

Pirates Sentenced.

Charleston Dec. 31

At Savanna, on Friday the 28th inst. eight prisoners viz: John White, Robert Wessals, George Tucker, John Martin Manraux, Solomon Lodowick, Thomas Hall and John Loyal were called up to receive the sentence of the law, in the United States Circuit Court held at that place. A motion was made by the council for the accused in arrest of judgment, on the ground of informality in the indictment and sentence; but the argument was overruled by Judge Johnston, who then proceeded to pass the awful sentence. It is said his address to the prisoners was short and unstudied, but its impression was greatly hightened by the feeling manner in which it was uttered.—The occasion alone would render the solemn award of Justice an appeal more eloquent in substance than in language. The prisoners it is added felt it; one of them fainted away with that sickness of heart which shuts out hope; and, generally, their languor of muscle and despairing looks evinced the horror of that trying moment. One man, however, (Soloman Lodowick listened to his fate without any apparent emotion, and when the first Wednesday in April was named as the day of ignominious death, he smiled and declared he would die contented if he could only be revenged on his accusers.

Another example we trust, will now be made of the final result of guilty pursuits. Murder and Piracy are deeds which all mankind must unite to execrate and punish Wretches whose actions throw them out of the pale of civilized society, should be cast away from its protection, no false clemency, no natural throb of pity, which rises within us at the prospect of their dreadful fate, should divert the sword of justice from its exterminating sweep. The seas have been crimsoned with the blood of the honest mariner, and the wealth of the industrious merchant is scattered by the winds, or made the pander or exciter of vice and villany.—'Tis time to crush the hydra and spare mankind. —City Gaz.

SALEM, N. Y. Dec. 27.

Most Melancholy Accident—It is our painful duty to record one of the most distressing incidents which has ever occurred in this vicinity. Early on Wednesday last Mr. Harrison G. Blake, an inhabitant of this town, left home with his wife and one of his children, about 15 months old, intending to visit his father-in-law and other friends beyond the Green Mountain. They reached Arlington, Vt in safety, about eleven o'clock, and soon after noon proceeded on the road, leading over the mountain, thro' Sunderland. As they ascended they found the snow much deeper than they expected, and after two or three miles no sleigh had passed since the late snow, and no path or track was to be found. With much labor, however, they slowly pressed forward, breaking their road through snow more than two feet deep, on the side of a steep, rugged mountain, and nearly 5 miles from any human habitation. Here night overtook them. And to augment their dismay, their horse, fatigued by such protacted exertions in the snow, began to lag, and at length stopped. After some deliberation, they concluded to loose him from the sleigh, and made another vigorous effort to save themselves and their child. The following extract from a letter, dated Stratton Dec. 21, written in Mr. Blake's name, by his attending physician, to his friend here, exhibits all the additional particulars of this melancholy affair, which have come to our knowledge:

'My wife rode and carried the babe a short distance only, when she said she could ride no farther. She then alighted and told me she would walk as far as she could after me, and answer to my calls. I took her mantle and gave in return my great coat and mittens. Her responses soon became so low that I could not hear them, nor could she probably hear either my calls for help or my addresses to her. She advanced but a short distance, before she left our dear babe, wrapt in my great coat, in the snow. She did not travel more than 150 rods, when she became so chilled and frozen that she sunk never to rise again. She was found alive next day, but survived only a few moments. I was about 40 rods from her in advance, obviously in a perishing condition. But a few hours more, Dear Sir, and I too must have been beyond the reach of human assistance. I called aloud repeatedly before I became benumbed with the cold; but all to no avail. We were all providentially found yesterday afternoon, and carried to the nearest habitation in this town. Our babe was found half a mile from my deceased consort, with its face naked and in the snow: it smiled affectionately when taken up: it is not frozen except one foot, and that not badly. My feet are both frozen half way to my ancles. My hands are also much frozen, and to-day indescribably painful.'—Northern Post.

$20 REWARD.

RAN away on the 30th of last month from the subscriber, living on Bradock's field, near Pittsburgh, a negro boy, named about 19 years of age, five feet six or seven inches in height. The clothing he took with him, was a roundabout, jacket, and trowsers, of blue striped cotton, a pair of tow-linen trowsers, a white vest and two tow shirts, a wool hat somewhat less than half worn. He has a scar on the top of his head, occasioned by the fall of a brick from a scaffold when a child, which yet continues tender and causes pain when pressed, he is fond of whiskey and will get drunk, at which time he has a stupid look, he effects to be a rigid methodist, and is fond of singing hymns, which he frequently practises. I will give the above reward and all reasonable charges if brought home, or twenty dollars for securing him in any jail in the U. States, so that I can get him again. He went away in company with a yellow man named DICK, who sometimes calls himself Henry Dickson, the property of J. & H. Wallace, who will give a reasonable reward for his apprehension.

JEFFERSON,

GAZETTE.

FRIDAY MORNING, JANUARY 18, 1822.

Messrs. Eichbaum & Johnston,

Gentlemen,

Understanding that the people of Brownsville are again trying to get that place made a seat of Justice, it becomes a matter worthy of some consideration with us, whether we ought to aid or oppose them.

Heretofore the members from this northwestern district of the state vote against the establishment of a county seat at that place, and so they did against the passage of the law for improving the navigation of the Monongahela river. It is time for us to examine whether such a policy is not selfish in us, & contrary to our own interests. If the improvement of the Monongehela from Brownsville to this place, was such as to admit the transportation of merchandize at all seasons, and thereby divert that portion of Western commerce which now passes the channel of the National Road to Wheeling, down the river by our City—Then it is impolitic in us to throw any obstacles in the way of the prosperity of Brownsville: our interests are connected.

By a proper improvement of the river, and a suitable enterprise in the people, the trade might be turned off the road, west of that point, and take the more cheap and easy route of the river. The western merchant then could supply himself at our Factories, with the same convenience as if he shipped at Pittsburgh; but very different would it be should he ship at Wheeling. I think it proper to throw out these ideas to the citizens of Pittsburgh, under a cautious belief that the interests of Brownsville and Pittsburgh are blended; and it is only by their uniting in improvments of the river, and in every other way which will result to the benefit of each other; that the injury resulting from the National Road, going to Wheeling, can be counteracted. I am therefore of opinion, we ought to instruct our members to be favourable to their petition for a new county.

A CITIZEN.

To the Friends of Philanthropy.

AT a meeting held at the house of Isaac Carey, in the city of Pittsburgh, on Saturday evening, 29th December, 1821, for the purpose of forming a benevolent society, for the relief of distressed emigrants from the island of Great Britain, and other purposes, the following was adopted as the fundamental principles.

Knowing that charity in its most comprehensive sense, is the most exalted of all christian virtues—we believe that social, as well as religious obligation, requires the practice of it, in giving counsel to the weak against oppression, and to the country against injustice—in furnishing employment to the industrious—in administering to the sick—in supplying food to the hungry, and clothes to the naked—in sympathizing with, and alleviating the distress of the widow—in wiping away the tear from the orphan's cheek, and being a father to the fatherless. We believe, further, that the performance of this obligation, strengthens the bands of society, draws man to man by the strong and endearing attraction of benevolence, beneficence and gratitude; softens and smooths the inequalities of fortune; and lays a broad and solid foundation, upon which to erect moral and political virtue, and establish the public weal.

Deeply impressed with these truths, we hereby unite in a benevolent association, and have resolved to designate it by the title of 'The Union Benevolent Society of Pittsburgh.' The society shall consist of those persons, being citizens of the United States, or wishing to become citizens, who bear a good moral character, and are firmly attached to the constitution of the United States, and that of Pennsylvania. And it is unalterably and irrevocably decreed, that this society shall not be dissolved while any seven of its members shall continue together. And should any unforeseen accident, or other cause, ever occasion a total dissolution of this society, the funds thereof, without diminution or defalcation, shall be transferred to, and become the property of such incorporated societies, in equal shares, as are or may be founded and established for the education of poor children within the city of Pittsburgh.

Friends of humanity wishing to become members, will please apply for information to Doctor S. R. Holmes, Joseph Armorer, Henry W. Lewis, or George G. Wright. The stated meetings of the society will be held on the last Saturday in every month, between the hours of six and nine o'clock, P. M. in the court house, in the city of Pittsburgh.

S. R. HOLMES, President.

MAMMOTH HOG.

A hog of the following extraordinary dimensions is now exhibiting at Lancaster, Pa. viz:

Four feet two inches high,
Ten feet in length,
Eight feet round the body,
Five feet four inches round the neck,

And is supposed to weigh one thousand pounds.

Legislature.—The two Houses have got to business without any notice of the irregularity of their adjournment. The members of the House of Representatives appear to have made good use of their time during the holidays, having come from among their constituents well loaded with petitions, of which a greater number were presented on Thursday, than we recollect ever to have seen presented in one day.

We observed some time ago, a notice of 17 petitions for divorces having been presented at one session of the Legislature of Kentucky. Our Legislature have a greater number before them.

Mr. Raguet's resolution, the object of which appears to be, to ascertain the number of miles of turnpike road constructed in the state, with their cost, the number of bridges, &c. promises to put the people in the possession of valuable information. We have no doubt, that the turnpike and other companies will afford the committee all the information desired, with the greatest alacrity.

We were glad to observe the attempt of Mr. Hopkins to introduce a bill, exempting from the payment of toll, on a part of the western turnpike, by the northern route, wagons whose wheels roll seven inches on each side. This is a project that we have frequently heard cursorily spoken of, but this is the first time, we believe, that it has been presented to the public in such a shape as is like to make it a matter to be seriously examined by the people. The exemption of wagons of the description proposed, would, in our opinion, be beneficial to the turnpikes and the stockholders, which are now cut up by the narrow wheels, and therefore avoided by travellers.

No other business of novelty or importance has been touched since the holidays.

To-morrow is the day appointed for the election of State Treasurer. Wm. Clark it is supposed will be elected, as he had 80 votes, Jacob Holgate 28, and R. M. Crain 15, at the Caucus of Saturday night.

The paper called the Lynchburg Press, of Virginia, mentions the death of Bartholomew Curtis, aged between 70 and 80 years, who was born deaf and dumb. He enrolled himself at the beginning of our revolutionary war, in the regular army, and served his country in the field with distinguished zeal and courage. It is said in the obituary notice of him, that there are now in the neighborhood of Pittsylvania, several surviving soldiers of the same war, who can testify to his admirable behaviour in the battle of Brandywine and Germantown, and of Guilford Court-House. It is added, that he was remarkable for vigour and acuteness of mind—that his countenance was replete with expression and his gesture singularly intelligible and eloquent. The following relation is given of the lamentable end to which this remarkable man was destined.

'Stricken with years, a welcome and privileged guest at every house, where he was personally known, it at last pleased Almighty God to snatch this interesting and venerable man from time to the eternal world, in a manner equally sudden and heart-rending. The old man, after going to several places in the neighborhood in his usual unceremonious way, sojourned, on last Friday night at the house of Mrs. Selah Ann Estess. He was lighted to bed, in the upper story of the house. About ten o'clock, after the deceased and every member of the family had sunk into profound sleep, the mansion was suddenly, and by accident, wrapped in the flames of a desolating fire, from which Bartholomew Curtis never escaped. The other persons providentially saved their lives. The subject of this obituary was entirely burnt up, with the exception of his bones. Thus perished Bartholomew Curtis—a deaf and dumb soldier of the revolution. Let the philanthropist and patriot re-echo the benign sentiment of the good old lady in whose dwelling he perished. 'If,' said she, 'poor Thall could only have been saved from the flames, I should not regard my own losses, great as they are.' N. Y. Spectator.

From the Cincinnati Advertiser.

The Editors of Newspapers in the Southern section of the Union 'have moved the question' who shall be the next President. They have brought on the turf two nags of good pedigree, high carriage, and some bottom, that are in high keeping, and have long been in training under the most experienced sportsmen in this country. But we think their nags are not of so high mettle, nor so good bottom, as the New York colt Young Gamble—although it is objected to Young Count, by the knowing ones, that he knows too much on the bit, and that he is too much in the practice of running small forward, to run well on a circular course; yet, in our opinion, he is so well bred and moves in such elegant style, that the bets on him, in this state, will probably be two to one.

Whitlib Jockey & Co.

The statue of Washington by Canova, arrived safe at Raleigh, the capital of North Carolina, on Monday the 24th ult. It was transported by the steam-boat from Wilmington to Fayetteville and from thence on carriages, without injury, notwithstanding the weight of the package and the badness of the roads. The legislature being in session, committees of arrangement were appointed, and the arrival celebrated with ceremonies due even to the statue of our great man. N. Y. American.

Wilful murder of a black slave is at length declared a capital crime punishable with death in South Carolina. It is a matter of surprise to us to find in the enlightened legislature of that state, 16 votes in the senate against an amendment to their penal code, so long called for by humanity and justice. ib.

A counterfeit note for five hundred dollars of the Phœnix Bank, was detected at the Bank yesterday. This is one of the boldest and in point of execution, one of the best impositions attempted on the public, the engraving is well executed, in fact equal to Murray, Fairman & Co's in the genuine note. The filling of the note well done, and the signature of both President and Cashier, requires a practised eye to distinguish. It is supposed these counterfeits have been put into circulation at Boston. We learn the Bank here has determined to withdraw all their five hundred dollar notes from circulation.

N. Y. D. Advertiser.

The Quakers.—The last Edinburgh Review, in the conclusion of its article on the subject of Capital punishment,' in speaking of the exertions of the Society of Friends, observes, 'the Quakers have taken a considerable interest in this question, and to them we also, in a great measure, own the abolition of the slave trade. They have been ridiculed, as a body, for not lending themselves to the pomps and vanities of the world; but they devote themselves to pry into and alleviate its evils. If you see one of them come into a bookseller's shop, it is not to enquire for Campbell's Pleasures of Hope, or for Rogers's Pleasures of Memory, but for Burton on Prison Discipline, or for the last account of the state of the Gaol at Leicester. These are their delights, their luxuries, and refinements. They do not indeed add new grace to the Corinthian capitals of polished society; but they dig down into its dungeon-glooms and noisome sewers.'

Newly Invented Boat.—A letter from North Berwick says, 'this morning a novelty unknown in this place before, attracted the attention of a numerous assemblage of spectators. A boat, manned by four men, proceeded from this harbor to Canty Bay, a distance of two miles, and after refreshing the crew, proceeded round the Bass Rock, and returned about a quarter past nine, having performed the voyage in the space of an hour and a quarter gross time, being upwards of six miles, the whole performed without either sails, oars or any steam apparatus. The invention is entirely that of a respectable millwright here, who expects a patent before he publishes the means of impression.' English pap.

Book keeping by Double Entry.—Mr Nimms in his history of Sterlingshire, in Scotland, informs us, that when writing was a rare accomplishment, the old Treasurer of the Town of Sterling kept his accounts in the following singular manner: he hung up two boots, one on each side of the chimney; and in one he put all the money he received, and in the other all the receipts or vouchers for money he paid at the end of the year, or whenever he wanted to make up his accounts, he emptied the boots, and by counting their several and respective contents, he was enabled to make a balance, perhaps with as much regularity, and as little trouble, as any book-keeper in the kingdom. ib.

NATURAL HISTORY.

About the beginning of July last year, a female weasel, of the larger species, was taken alive in a field at Craige, near Perth. The person who caught it amused himself by taming this little animal. In a few weeks the weasel appeared to be perfectly reconciled to the narrow bounds of the house, through which it was allowed to range, and became so familiar with his host, as to eat out of his hand, climb round his person, and go into his pockets in search of food. In the month of December, this animal was delivered of four young ones, who were also treated with all possible care by the owner of the house. The weather having become very cold, the dam one night removed her tender family from the floor to the bed, and lodged them safely under the blanket at her host's feet. On seeing this, he took one of them, and kept it in his hand, on the pillow. The dam appeared alarmed, and ran about him, making a plaintive noise; but seemingly assured that no harm was to be done its young, she immediately brought the other three, one by one, and laid them on his hand. The parent weasel has since been killed by accident.

GAZETTE.

FRIDAY MORNING, JANUARY 18, 1822.

Messrs. Eichbaum & Johnston,

Gentlemen,

Understanding that the people of Brownsville are again trying to get that place made a seat of Justice, it becomes a matter worthy of some consideration with us, whether we ought to aid or oppose them.

Heretofore the members from this northwestern district of the state vote against the establishment of a county seat at that place, and so they did against the passage of the law for improving the navigation of the Monongahela river. It is time for us to examine whether such a policy is not selfish in us, & contrary to our own interests. If the improvement of the Monongehela from Brownsville to this place, was such as to admit the transportation of merchandize at all seasons, and thereby divert that portion of Western commerce which now passes the channel of the National Road to Wheeling, down the river by our City—Then it is impolitic in us to throw any obstacles in the way of the prosperity of Brownsville: our interests are connected.

By a proper improvement of the river, and a suitable enterprise in the people, the trade might be turned off the road, west of that point, and take the more cheap and easy route of the river. The western merchant then could supply himself at our Factories, with the same convenience as if he shipped at Pittsburgh; but very different would it be should he ship at Wheeling. I think it proper to throw out these ideas to the citizens of Pittsburgh, under a cautious belief that the interests of Brownsville and Pittsburgh are blended; and it is only by their uniting in improvments of the river, and in every other way which will result to the benefit of each other; that the injury resulting from the National Road, going to Wheeling, can be counteracted. I am therefore of opinion, we ought to instruct our members to be favourable to their petition for a new county.

A CITIZEN.

To the Friends of Philanthropy.

AT a meeting held at the house of Isaac Carey, in the city of Pittsburgh, on Saturday evening, 29th December, 1821, for the purpose of forming a benevolent society, for the relief of distressed emigrants from the island of Great Britain, and other purposes, the following was adopted as the fundamental principles.

Knowing that charity in its most comprehensive sense, is the most exalted of all christian virtues—we believe that social, as well as religious obligation, requires the practice of it, in giving counsel to the weak against oppression, and to the unwary against injustice—in furnishing employment to the industrious—in administering to the sick—in supplying food to the hungry, and clothes to the naked—in sympathizing with, and alleviating the distress of the widow—in wiping away the tear from the orphan's cheek, and being a father to the fatherless. We believe, further, that the performance of this obligation strengthens the bands of society, draws man to man by the strong and endearing attraction of benevolence, benificence and gratitude; softens and smooths the inequalities of fortune; and lays a broad and solid foundation, upon which to erect moral and political virtue, and establish the public weal.

Deeply impressed with these truths, we hereby unite in a benevolent association, and have resolved to designate it by the title of 'The Union Benevolent Society of Pittsburgh.' The society shall consist of those persons, being citizens of the United States, or wishing to become citizens, who bear a good moral character, and are firmly attached to the constitution of the United States, and that of Pennsylvania. And it is unalterably and irrevocably decreed, that this society shall not be dissolved while any seven of its members shall continue together. And should any unforeseen accident, or other cause, ever occasion a total dissolution of this society, the funds thereof, without diminution or defalcation, shall be transferred to, and become the porperty of such incorporated societies, in equal shares, as are or may be founded and established for the education of poor children within the city of Pittsburgh.

Friends of humanity wishing to become members, will please apply for information to Doctor S. R. Holmes. Joseph Armorer, Henry W. Lewis, or George G. Wright The stated meetings of the society will be held on the last Saturday in every month, between the hours of six and nine o'clock, P M. in the court house, in the city of Pittsburgh.

MAMMOTH HOG.

A hog of the following extraordinary dimensions is now exhibiting at Lancaster, Pa. viz:

Four feet two inches high,
Ten feet in length,
Eight feet round the body,
Five feet four inches round the neck,

And is supposed to weigh one thousand pounds.

Legislature.—The two Houses have got to business without any notice of the irregularity of their adjournment. The members of the House of Representatives appear to have made good use of their time during the holidays, having come from among their constituents well loaded with petitions, of which a greater number were presented on Thursday, than we recollect ever to have seen presented in one day.

We observed some time ago, a notice of 17 petitions for divorces having been presented at one session of the Legislature of Kentucky. Our Legislature have a greater number before them.

Mr. Raguet's resolution, the object of which appears to be, to ascertain the number of miles of turnpike road constructed in the state, with their cost, the number of bridges, &c. promises to put the people in the possession of valuable information. We have no doubt, that the turnpike and other companies will afford the committee all the information desired, with the greatest alacrity.

We were glad to observe the attempt of Mr. Hopkins to introduce a bill, exempting from the payment of toll, on a part of the western turnpike, by the northern route, wagons whose wheels roll seven inches on each side. This is a project that we have frequently heard cursorily spoken of, but this is the first time, we believe, that it has been presented to the public in such a shape as is like to make it a matter to be seriously examined by the people. The exemption of wagons of the description proposed, would, in our opinion, be beneficial to the turnpikes and the stockholders, which are now cut up by the narrow wheels, and therefore avoided by travellers.

No other business of novelty or importance has been touched since the holidays.

To-morrow is the day appointed for the election of State Treasurer. Wm. Clark it is supposed will be elected, as he had 80 votes, Jacob Holgate 28, and R. M. Crain 15, at the Caucus of Saturday night.

The paper called the Lynchburg Press, of Virginia, mentions the death of Bartholomew Curtis, aged between 70 and 80 years, who was born deaf and dumb. He enrolled himself at the beginning of our revolutionary war, in the regular army, and served his country in the field with distinguished zeal and courage. It is said in the obituary notice of him, that there are now in the neighborhood of Pittsylvania, several surviving soldiers of the same war, who can testify to his admirable behaviour in the battle of Brandywine and Germantown, and of Guilford Court-House. It is added, that he was remarkable for vigour and acuteness of mind—that his countenance was replete with expression and his gesture singularly intelligible and eloquent. The following relation is given of the lamentable end to which this remarkable man was destined.

'Stricken with years, a welcome and privileged guest at every house, where he was personally known, it at last pleased Almighty God to snatch this interesting and venerable man from time to the eternal world, in a manner equally sudden and heart-rending. The old man, after going to several places in the neighborhood in his usual unceremonious way, sojourned, on last Friday night at the house of Mrs. Selah Ann Estess. He was lighted to bed, in the upper story of the house. About ten o'clock, after the deceased and every member of the family had sunk into profound sleep, the mansion was suddenly, and by accident, wrapped in the flames of a desolating fire, from which Bartholomew Curtis never escaped. The other persons providentially saved their lives. The subject of this obituary was entirely burnt up, with the exception of his bones. Thus perished Bartholomew Curtis—a deaf and dumb soldier of the revolution. Let the philanthropist and patriot re-echo the benign sentiment of the good old lady in whose dwelling he perished. 'If,' said she, 'poor Thall could only have been saved from the flames, I should not regard my own losses, great as they are.' N. Y. Spectator.

From the Cincinnati Advertiser.

The Editors of Newspapers in the Southern section of the Union 'have moved the question' who shall be the next President. They have brought on the turf two nags of good pedigree, high carriage, and some bottom, that are in high keeping, and have long been in training under the most experienced sportsmen in this country. But we think their nags are not of so high mettle, nor so good bottom, as the New Yorw colt Young Castl—although it is objected to Young Canal, by the knowing ones, that he bears too hard on the bit, and that he is too much in the practice of running strait forward, to doo well on a circular course; yet, in our opinion, he is so well bred and moves in such elegant style, that the bets on him, in this state, will probably be two to one.

Whistle Jacket & Co.

The statue of Washington by Canova, arrived safe at Raleigh, the capital of North Carolina, on Monday the 24th ult. It was transported by the steam-boat from Wilmington to Fayetteville and from thence on carriages, without injury, notwithstanding the weight of the packages and the badness of the roads. The legislature being in session, committees of arrangement were appointed, and the arrival celebrated with ceremonies due even to the statue of our great man. N. Y. American.

Wilful murder of a black slave is at length declared a capital crime punishable with death in South Carolina. It is a matter of surprise to us to find in the enlightened legislature of that state, 16 votes in the senate against an amendment to their penal code, so long called for by humanity and justice. ib.

A counterfeit note for five hundred dollars of the Phœnix Bank, was detected at the Bank yesterday. This is one of the boldest and in point of execution, one of the best impositions attempted on the public, the engraving is well executed, in fact equal to Murray, Fairman & Co's in the genuine note. The filling of the note well done, and the signature of both President and Cashier, requires a practised eye to distinguish. It is supposed these counterfeits have been put into circulation at Boston. We learn the Bank here has determined to withdraw all their five hundred dollar notes from circulation.

N. Y. D. Advertiser.

The Quakers.—The last Edinburgh Review, in the conclusion of its article on the subject of Capital punishment,' in speaking of the exertions of the Society of Friends, observes, 'the Quakers have taken a considerable interest in this question, and to them we also, in a great measure, own the abolition of the slave trade. They have been ridiculed, as a body, for not lending themselves to the pomps and vanities of the world; but they devote themselves to pry into and alleviate its evils. If you see one of them come into a bookseller's shop, it is not to enquire for Campbell's Pleasures of Hope, or for Rogers's Pleasures of Memory, but for Burton on Prison Discipline, or for the last account of the state of the Gaol at Leicester. These are their delights, their luxuries, and refinements. They do not indeed add new grace to the Corinthian capitals of polished society; but they dig down into its dungeon-glooms and noisome sewers.'

Newly Inven ed Boat.—A letter from North Berwick says, 'this morning a novelty unknown in this place before, attracted the attention of a numerous assemblage of spectators. A boat, manned by four men, proceeded from this harbor to Canty Bay, a distance of two miles, and after refreshing the crew, proceeded round the Bass Rock, and returned about a quarter past nine, having performed the voyage in the space of an hour and a quarter gross time, being upwards of six miles, the whole performed without either sails oars or any steam apparatus. The invention is entirely that of a respectable millwright here, who expects a patent before he publishes the means of impression.' English pap.

Book keeping by Double Entry.—Mr Nimms in his history of Sterlingshire, in Scotland, informs us, that when writing was a rare accomplishment, the old Treasurer of the Town of Sterling kept his accounts in the following singular manner: he hung up two boots, one on each side of the chimney; and in one he put all the money he received, and in the other all the receipts or vouchers for money he paid at the end of the year, or whenever he wanted to make up his accounts, he emptied the boots, and by counting their several and respective contents, he was enabled to make a balance, perhaps with as much regularity, and as little trouble, as any book-keeper in the kingdom. ib.

NATURAL HISTORY.

About the beginning of July last year, a female weasel, of the larger species, was taken alive in a field at Craige, near Perth. The person who caught it amused himself by taming this little animal. In a few weeks the weasel appeared to be perfectly reconciled to the narrow bounds of the house, through which it was allowed to range, and became so familiar with his host, as to eat out of his hand, climb round his person, and go into his pockets in search of food. In the month of December, this animal was delivered of four young ones, who were also treated with all possible care by the owner of the house. The weather having become very cold, the dam one night removed her tender family from the floor to the bed, and lodged them safely under the blanket at her host's feet. On seeing this, he took one of them, and kept it in his hand, on the pillow. The dam appeared alarmed, and ran about him, making a plaintive noise; but seemingly assured that no harm was to be done its young, she immediately brought the other three, one by one, and laid them on his hand. The parent weasel has since been killed by accident.

"Prevention better than Cure."

Lee's Antibilious Pills,

Not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the proprietor has every grateful reason to conclude from extensive experience, for believing that a dose of these pills, taken once every two weeks during the prevalence of Bilious, Yellow and Malignant Fevers, will under the blessing of Providence, prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in bilious regions of country disorders they are found highly serviceable in restoring health.

They are admirably calculated to carry off superfluous bile, and to prevent its morbid secretion—to restore appetite, a regular habit of the body, and promote free perspiration.

☞ Please enquire for 'Lee's Anti-Bilious Pills.'

Mr. Noah Ridgely—For two months past I have been afflicted with violent sickness at the stomach, and inclination to vomit, and loss of appetite. By taking two doses of your pills I am restored to a perfect state of health, which induced my wife to try them also, which was attended with the same good effects, being now able to attend to her domestic concerns. In my opinion this medicine is unequalled in stomach and bowel complaints, not being attended with griping pain common to other medicine.

JOHN SCOTT.

Dulany-street, Baltimore.

Lee's Worm Lozenges.

The proprietor has now the pleasure of stating that the following case came under his immediate observation. His little daughter about 5 years old, appeared very visibly to lose her flesh, no particular cause could be given for her thus pining away, she was at length taken with fevers, which, with other symptoms led to believe she had worms; he gave her a dose of Lee's Lozenges, which brought away incredible as it may appear, two worms, the one fifteen and the other thirteen inches in length, each three fourth's of an inch round: he has given the Lozenges to another of his children, which brought away a vast number of very small worms.

Lee's Elixir.

A sovereign remedy for colds, obstinate coughs, Catarrhs, asthmas, sore throats, and approaching consumption.

Mr. Noah Ridgely,

I was attacked with a violent cold, a severe cough and pains in my breast, which continued to grow worse; during which my appetite failed, and my voice altered so much, that it was with the utmost exertion I could pronounce a single sentence louder than breathe. Some of my friends observed to me that much had been done by the use of Lee's Elixir, advised me to procure a bottle, which I accordingly did, and to those persons unacquainted with the merits of this medicine, it will appear astonishing, that three doses should remove the pains in my breast, and the use of one bottle restore me to perfect health.

Yours, with respect
